milk and the calf will drink. Feed them with new milk two weeks

Farmers should be sure that every artiele they raise, make, or trade in, is as good as (or rather better than) represented. In Pennsylvania to make hard close grained butter in July they cool the eream the night before with ice and just before the butter comes throw in a bucket of ice

While busy about the ont-door repairs and improvements on your farm don't neglect the in-door conveniences your " old lady " should have ; a new broom, a botter cook stove, more tin pans, a better pump, a more suitable milk room, sera-

HAND DRINKING.—A hard drinking match came off on Friday afternoon on Clay street. Four boys tried to see who could drink the most cold water. One of them succeeded in concealing two quarts and a half about his person. The others drank two quarts apiece. This is presty hard drinking, and the rashness of the attempt has been the source of considerable comment. "Why," says a young friend on our right, "I would not try to drink that much whiskey at once, let alone water."

the intention is clear.

Substitute of effect, merely because perhaps, some of its provisions might be put in a more appropriate place. We think the intention sufficiently appears from the statute in question. Sections 4. 6 and 9 separate with sufficient clearness certain assaults from the general class, and give to a Justice jurisdiction ever these. The act might have gone on and said expressly, that the punishment of these shall not exceed, ke, but taking the language of the act in connection with the Constitution it seems to us that a plain and necessary implication limits the punishment as clearly and expressly as words could. It must be noted, that the act in question, although in one sense it is a penal law in the sense of requiring to be strictly constructed.

With the ovil has a spain and measure of requiring to be strictly constructed.

With the ovil has a spain and again by the Executive officers of Virginia is at last done with all hope, Gov. Walker having positively refused to grant him any futher respite,— Conway, sonin-law of deceased, asked Detective Cole if he thought that the murderer of Mr. Anderson could be discovered. Cole, who had already been impressed with the belief that Conway was the guilty party, looked him directly in the eye and replied, in effect, "I know now who killed him!" Coffway was visibly affected by this response. Cole reported this interview to the shariff and others, and expressed to them his belief that Conway was the murderer. The result was that Conway was reseted, and committed to Pittsylvania county jail, where he made a full confession of the horrible crime. Among the circum sances which strongthened the suspicious against Conway before his arrest was the fact that he had borrowed a considerable sum of money from

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

(FROM OUR OWN REPORTER.)

A little boy derested—Nearly a Ross.
Your reporter left Danville two o'clock Thesday morning for Yame y ville. He rode sixteen miles horseback in the night and reached the "seat of war" early after sunrise that morning. The old town lookad like a camp; nearly all of the store were shit up, their occupants for the most part being under arrest in the Court House, Our first business on arriving in Yancey-ville was to get in to see

THE PRICONDUS.

THE PRICONDUS.

We went in with a friend who was allowed free ingress and egress. In the end room of the lower passage, where Stethens was killed-we found the Alamane Dolph Moore, Jhn Hunter, Sid oot, Moss Hainey, (who halfs from Cas-sil,) and John Treland. They had just the Having slept upon sheep skins old blankers spread down upon the loor. We then went above on the second or introduced to

Who sat right at the door. He is not so mean a looking manus we expected to see. But evidently a man of no polish or education. Though to do him justice we have lately met with old confederate soldiers who had friends that were prisoners in Kirk's charge during the war and they prefer no charges of cruelty or unkindness against him. The first man we shook referred to by Col. Eargen and has with hands with was Sam Hill. He was standing at the door near Kirk. Then came up our young friend, Bob Roan, and we shook hands with him. Then we were moving eross to slinke hands with Mr. W. B. Bowe when Kirk halted us, crying out here! you man! don't speak a word with hose men!" We left the house in a very those men! few minutes, and just as we passed around the Court House corner (Kirk's men were cooking their breakfast on the Court Green) one of them sing out at us "yonder goes a G-d-d-m kuklux! he looks like one!" At this playful remark we stepped as high, ty thousand dollar security, as a billed horse and soon afterward set our e in the direction of "Home again." THE CASWELL PRISONERS.

In the up stuirs room of the Court House are confined the following citizens of Yancayville and Caswell county z Dr. N. M. Roan, Hon. John Kerr, Robert Roane, Dr. A. G. Yancey, Yaney Jones, Capt. A. A. Mitchell, J. M. Neal, Sheriff J. C. Griffith, F. A. Wiley, W. B. Bowe, Bazley Graves, Hon. S. P. Hill, T. J. Womack; and in addition to these the following were arrested on Tuesday: Joe Fowler, Jim Williamson and Johnnie McRee, a tittle boy of nine years of age, who we understood was arrested as a witness. When they arrested this little boy an old United States soldier was heard to remark: "they'll be after taking up the hogs and the eats next." We heard of these subsequent arrests after we left Yanceyville-can't vouch for their cor

HOW THE ARRESTS WERE MADE. Kirk's troops arrived in the suburbs of Yanceyville Monday evening about two clock. There was going on in the court House a political meeting—a discussion-between Leach and Scott. Kirk waited outside of the town till the court House was filled and the speaking had begun, Then he marched in and deployed his men in and around the room. The door was closed. And then Kirk made the first arrest. Going up to sheriff Griffith, who stood in the vestibule, with a pistol cocked in his hand, he laid his hand on him and det is my authority," replied Kirk pointing as he spoke to his armed men. The court House was then kept closed for several hours and the land and submission to Constitutions and Land and Lan "you are my prisoner." Griffith : "By what authority?" W. B. BOWE, ESQ. Mr. Bowe is an old genfleman and on as full of stout pluck as an egg is of meat. Late in the evening a Majorof Kirk's command walked up to him and said. "You are my prisoner." Mr. Bowe isked, "By what authority do you arrest inc." The Mr. Bowe thereupon, as we were told, struck him in the face twice. This created the greatest and most fearful confusion oldiers ran their muskets in at the win dows; Mr. Bowe was once or twice clubb ed with their guns; pistols and guns were brought to bear on him; a dozen caps were exploded in the court room, Officers and citizens and soldiers were crying "halt!" while out-doors the women and children were praying the soldiers and people to "have mercy." It is fortunate the affair

On their way they motone of her sons who in a very excited way told his mother all that had happened to his father and at the news Mrs. Wiley fainted and fell to the ground. Sil, left her there. Again we heard reports of their having knocked Mr. Wiley down and beaten him with fewer will. with fence nuls. We give the following soldiers made the arrest. COL. BURGEN'S REPORT.

Mr. Wiley is one of the bravest men I ever saw. He was in the field when I field him I had come to arrest him. His manner showed resistance. He drew a heavy pocket knife from his pocket and begun whittling a stick; I said "Mr. Wiley, I shall have to request you to put up that knife." He replied "I shan't do any such dam thing; the knife belongs to me, and I am not afraid of forty thousand of you," and with that he started towards me with his knife open. I drew my revolver on him and he bared his bosom and told me, dam me, to kill him right then and there. He put his knife up. I then laid my hand on him and he struck at me. My men ran up; I was ordered to arrest Mr. Wiley, so what could I do? I knocked him down with a piece of raff and then he refused to done; said he had acted wrong and was too hasty. I told him from the first if he would just come with me peaceably he could go in his carriage with his wife if he chose. I have always been kind to the men I have arrested. (Here Mr. Boyd was referred to by Col. Bargen and he saidthat with much gentlemanly kindness.) The prisoners I arrested in Alamance I put in an ambulance. Old Henderson Scott-the lame man-I not only had to ride in the ambulance but I got him a bed and some Camphor on the way. We had orders to arrest Henderson Scott.

She wants to go too! to go with Jamie-who was once strong and brave-but not strong enough or brave enough to push off the black cloud that would-in spite of the devil-gather on their pathway. And now all is dark there this beautiful Sunday morning. Do these folks with their hungry and half clad children love God? Ay, they love him more to-day than the potentate who sends all his little falks to Sunday School and all dresed in purple and alk velvet. They love God because they are dependent on him, And why should they? Has any benevolent part of a religious and highly cultivated society been into that thatch to cheer up that starving people? No. Has the christian world over wiped its eyes with a handkerchief for them? No. Then how do they know it is Sunday? What if they don't know it? There is more worship in their hearts now than you'll find under the water-falls and jum jams and furbelows of the fashionable christian world.
